Spanish Is Being Taught

Social Science Department Brings
Man From Cornell University;
STC Alumna Comes.

Five new faculty members assumed their responsibilities in the College with the opening of the fall half-semester.

Dr. Joseph Dreps is teaching Spanish and will assist Dr. Blanche Dow with French classes when needed. Dr. Dreps received his bachelor's and master's degree in Romance languages from the University of Wisconsin, and his doctor's degree from the University of Iowa. He has taught the past four years at Hastings College in Hastings, Nebraska, and before that was a member of the faculty of the University of North Dakota.

Dr. J. Richard Wilmet, with an A. B. and A. M. degree from the University of Iowa and a Ph. D. from Cornell University, is a member of the Social Sciences department faculty. He taught for five years in the high school at McComb, Illinois, and this past year has done part time teaching at Cornell University.

Miss Ruth Lane, who has been an instructor in mathematics at the University of Iowa for the past six years, is teaching in the mathematics department. She holds a bachelor's degree from Cornell College, and a master's and doctor's degree from the University of Iowa. The State Teachers College at Plattville, Wisconsin, has loaned to the College for one year, Dr. Irene Mueller. She has taken over the work done by Kenneth Simons, now a lieutenant in the Navy. Dr. Mueller received her bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Nebraska.

Miss Lois Roper, who received a bachelor's degree from the College in 1930, is assisting in the physics laboratory and in the mathematics department. Miss Roper lived at Altamont at the time of her graduation from the College, where her father is pastor of the Baptist church.

Dr. J. G. Strong, teacher in the chemistry department, came to the College at the beginning of the summer term, to replace Mr. Wilson, who was ill at that time. Dr. Strong received his bachelor's degree from Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, his master's degree from Ohio State College, and his doctor's degree from the University of Colorado.

Kenneth G. Allen Is Among Missing

Flying Fortress Navigator
Was Lost in European Field of Action.

Lieutenant Kenneth G. Allen, a graduate of the College, has been missing in action in the European area since August 17, according to an article in the Kansas City Times of September 15. He was a navigator on a Flying Fortress.

Before going into the air forces in 1941, Lieutenant Allen was a teacher and coach at Strawberry Point, Iowa. Previously, he had been employed by the Columbian Steel Tank Company of Kansas City.

Four brothers of Kenneth Allen are in service: Corporal Norman Allen, in Alaska; Private Paul Allen, Sheppard Field, Texas; Aviation cadet Eugene Allen, Miami, Florida; Ralph Allen, chief petty officer, Havre de Grace, Maryland.

President Lamkin Names
Special Bond Committee

At the request of the Bond Drive committee for Nodaway county, President Uel W. Lamkin appointed a chairman and twelve assistants as a special committee to canvass the personnel of the College for securing the bond sale quota assigned to the College. Mr. Harold Neece served as chairman.

With Mr. Neece on the committee were Mr. W. T. Garrett, Mr. W. W. Cook, Miss Katherine Franken, Miss Mary Keith, Miss Chloe Millikan, Miss Dora B. Smith, Miss Mattie M. Dykes, Dr. Frank Horsfall, Dr. Julian Aldrich, Miss June Cozine, and Mr. C. Edwin Wells.

President Uel W. Lamkin has been named to the speakers' bureau of the Missouri War Finance committee and the Missouri War Chest, Inc.

Chemistry Teacher
Dies Following 29
Years on Faculty

Mr. Wilson's Death Comes
After Weeks of Illness
Spent in Hospital.

Mr. Merton W. Wilson, teacher of chemistry in the College for 29 years, died at St. Francis Hospital, Maryville, on Tuesday night, August 31.

During Mr. Wilson's long illness he had longed "to come home," referring to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Henry A. Foster, where he had lived for twenty-five years. He had set September 1 as the day when he was to go home—on September 1, his body was taken to the Foster home, where it lay in state until the funeral the next afternoon at 5:00 o'clock at the Price funeral chapel.

The funeral service was conducted by Dr. W. S. Insley of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Hazel Carter of the music faculty of the College sang. Following the service, the body was taken to Traverse City, Michigan, Mr. Wilson's former home, for burial in the Bingham cemetery.

Mr. Wilson is survived by one sister, Mrs. Charles Draper of Traverse City, who was with him during the last weeks of his illness; one brother, Calvin Wilson, also of Traverse City; and several nieces and nephews. A nephew, James Draper, and a niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson Stutz, are known to people of the College in that they were brought here by their uncle to attend college.

In 1914, Mr. Wilson came to Maryville to join the College faculty as teacher of physics and chemistry. He held the A. B. degree from Olivet College, Michigan, with a major in physics and a minor in chemistry. At graduation he had tied with another student for honors. He took his Master's degree from the University of Chicago. He continued his graduate work there, turning all of his attention toward chemistry.

Students Do Him Honor.
He was a man who held scholarship in high esteem and always encouraged his students to go forward in their education. Many students from his classes have gone on to success in graduate schools and in technical industry. Just a few days before his death, he mentioned with pride four of his students who now have Doctor's degrees in chemistry and told of others who were holding responsible positions.

On campus, Mr. Wilson was a busy man. His teaching always came first, but he had many other duties. He served on many committees, was a member of the Faculty Council for a number of years, acted as adviser to the Junior class, took active interest in the sports program and was always in attendance at games.

He was a member of the American Association of University Professors, of the Missouri Academy of Science, and various other organizations.

Miss Curfman Teaches in Central College, Fayette

Miss Lula Mae Curfman, who was a member of the intercession faculty, will be Dean of Women and associate professor in English at Central College, Fayette, Missouri, this year. As dean of women, she succeeds Dr. Ruth Anderson, a former state president of the American Association of University Women, known in Maryville also for her lecture on one of the February lecture programs.

Miss Curfman did her undergraduate work at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College and took her Master's degree from Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York. She has been teaching at St. Mary's Hall, a private school at Fairbault, Minnesota.

Discuss Problems.

Programs are out announcing the Twenty-Sixth Annual Meeting of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association on October 7 and 8, at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College.

E. F. Allison, president of the association, will give the opening address on Thursday morning at 9:20 o'clock, using as his subject, "When the Lights Go on Again." He will set the theme for the meeting and will be followed by the Honorable Roy Scantlin, State Superintendent of Schools; Dr. John Ruff, president of the Missouri State Teachers Association; Mr. Robert Kammeyer, author, lecturer, traveler and radio commentator; Dr. Walter H. Judd, congressman from Minnesota, formerly medical missionary to China.

Other speakers on the program include Don Bolt, world traveler, writer, and authority on "South America"; Clifford W. Patton, from the Regional Educational Service Office, OPA, Dallas, Texas; Dr. E. T. McSwain, professor of education, Northwestern University; Count Byron de Procar, archaeologist, explorer, and author.

Many departmental meetings are planned. A more detailed program will be given in the next issue of the Northwest Missourian.

Mr. Seubert Has Sick Leave

Mr. Eugene Seubert, of the English department, is recuperating in his home from an illness which began while he was in Chicago attending a Workshop at the University of Chicago. He has been granted a leave of absence until November 1.

Ship's Company Establish Themselves Here and Administer Work.

The appearance of the campus is somewhat changed this fall by the some four hundred apprentice seamen of the Navy V-12 unit stationed here since July 1. Still in their white uniforms they may be seen marching across the campus to "chow," which is served in the "mess-hall" at the Men's Quad. Instead of the usual co-eds flitting around Residence Hall, apprentice seamen are to be seen rushing in and out as they go about the business of getting an education and training for service in the Navy.

The library building is now more than a library, for the whole first floor has been taken over as offices for the Navy staff. The medical officer has his office at Residence Hall, and the athletic officers are at the gymnasium.

Ship's Company Has Charge.
The commanding officer is Lieutenant Ralph K. Brown of St. Louis. He is a graduate of Ohio State University and for the last six years has been personnel director and advertising manager for the Missouri Trust company of St. Louis. His naval training was taken at the Navy's midshipman school at Columbia University, New York.

Lieutenant Nystrom, formerly of Eveleth, Minnesota, is executive officer of the Navy unit. He, too, was trained at the midshipman school at Columbia University. Formerly, he was a school administrator.

The medical officer is Lieutenant Fred L. Reuter from New Orleans. He is a graduate of Tulane University, where he received his medical training. He has been in the Navy for almost two years, having spent six months with the fleet, in active duty in the Pacific Zone.

Robert N. Black, Hospital Apprentice First Class, is a member of the medical staff here. He has been in the Navy about 18 months. He received his training at Great Lakes and had his first assignment to duty in the hospital there.

WAVE Is Disbursing Officer.
The only feminine member of the Navy staff is Ensign Lorraine Gorman, who is disbursing officer for the V-12 fleet stationed at the College. She it is who handles all the money, pays all the bills, and signs all the salary checks for the pay roll not only of the sailors and officers located at Maryville, but those at Warrensburg and Parkville. Ensign Gorman is a graduate of the University of New Hampshire, where she majored in economics. She joined the WAVES in March of this year and received her training at Smith College and at the Navy Supply Corps School at Radcliffe College.

Pharmacist Mate James Cregan, who is assistant in the medical department, was graduated from a laboratory technician school in St. Louis. He has seen duty in four Pacific battles and has been awarded the National Defense medal, the American Field of Operations medal, and the Asiatic Southwest Pacific award. He has been stationed in Australia, New Zealand, Canton, and Fiji Islands.

Several Work in "PT."
Lieutenant Albert Fagetti of Illinois is administrative officer for the physical training department (called by the Navy "PT"). He has been in the Navy 16 months. He was trained at Norfolk, Virginia.

Assisting Lieutenant Fagetti are Chief Specialist David Fuller and Chief Specialist Daniel O. Shura.

Officers Are Elected
When IRC Has Meeting

The International Relations Club held its organization meeting Tuesday, September 14, at which time new officers were elected. Esther Miller was elected president for the year; Clara Belle Sullenger and Mary Alice Turner were elected vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

The next meeting will be held September 28, when the program committee will be in charge of the meeting and will lead the discussion. The program committee announces that the discussions of the I. R. C. will center around countries and their political problems.

Private Comes Back
Lieutenant Colonel

Glade Bilby Wears Several Distinguished Service
Decorations.

The Northwest Missouri State Teachers College is proud of all its nearly nine-hundred former students, both men and women, serving in the armed forces of the United States, but it is with exceptional pride that it reviews the outstanding record of Glade Bilby, one of the youngest Lieutenant Colonels in the Army Air Corps. A little more than three years ago, Glade Bilby left his Alma Mater as a private in the air corps; today, he is commanding officer of the famed Black Scorpion Squadron of the United States Ninth Air Force Command, veteran of North African and Sicilian campaigns.

Such were the sentiments expressed by President Uel W. Lamkin at a special assembly called September 8 in his honor. The president asked the alumnus of the College to tell of his experiences since he had left the College to go into service.

Colonel Bilby, somewhat thinner than he was when he was a student and slightly altered in expression on account of a mustache which he has grown, seemed rather reluctant to tell of his own accomplishments. He acknowledged that he had been the first American pilot to drop a bomb on African soil, a feat which he accomplished in the battle of the Libyan desert, shortly before the British Eighth army under General Montgomery successfully turned the tide in that sector.

Pride in his Black Scorpion Squadron was evident in all that Colonel Bilby had to say. He told of the exploits of his squadron rather than of his own doings.

After receiving a shoulder wound in the Sicilian campaign and being marooned on a life raft in the Mediterranean Sea for twenty-four hours, Colonel Bilby was given a furlough. He is to report to Washington for a new assignment. He thinks that he may be sent to the Chinese front.

The modest appearing young aviator wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, the British Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Air Medal, but his heroic deeds are all in a day's work with the Black Scorpions, he says.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bilby of Skidmore were at the College to hear the assembly talk of their son.

Noble R. Aldrich of Sheridan visited his daughter, Catherine, at the College Tuesday evening. Mr. Aldrich is a former student of the College and was captain of the championship basketball team of 1928.

Death Comes to Hubert Garrett
Following Illness

Social Science Instructor
Had Been on Faculty of College Since 1930.

Mr. Hubert Garrett, a member of the faculty of the Social Science department of the College and head of the Placement committee, died at his home in Maryville on August 20, after an illness of eight months. He had been a member of the faculty since 1930.

Surviving Mr. Garrett are his wife; one son, Corporal John K. (Jack) Garrett, Camp Horn, Arizona; one daughter, Miss Ena June Garrett of Maryville; and four brothers: Ned Garrett, Parnell, Andrew Garrett, Farmington, New Mexico; Howard Garrett, Maryville; and John Garrett, Wichita, Kansas.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, August 31, at the First Methodist church in Maryville. Dr. C. C. James was the officiating minister, with Reverend W. H. Hackman of the Methodist church and Dr. W. S. Insley of the Presbyterian church assisting. Burial took place at the Clearmont cemetery.

He Was Alumnus.

Mr. Garrett's association with the College was longer than his service on the faculty, for he was a graduate of the institution, having taken his Bachelor's degree in 1924. He had started his college work in 1911, only to have it interrupted by teaching and by the outbreak of World War I, in which he served overseas. He was in the Extension department before becoming a member of the regular faculty. He received a Master's degree from the University of Nebraska and had worked toward the Doctor's degree at the University of Iowa.

Returning from his war experience as a second lieutenant in the air service, Mr. Garrett became an active member of the James Edward Gray Post of the American Legion. When the present war started and his own son went into service as a soldier, he joined the War Dads.

He would make better citizens. Mr. Garrett took his work in his own field of the social sciences seriously. He believed that it was his business to make better citizens of the young people who sat in his classes. When his students and other students in the College were ready for positions, Mr. Garrett in his capacity as head of the Placement committee was unflinching in his efforts to locate students their best advantage and to the best advantage of schools seeking teachers.

The place left vacant by the death of Mr. Garrett will be hard to fill. He was president of the Rotary Club, treasurer of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers Association, and secretary of the Knights of the Hickory Stick. He was a member of the Methodist church, the National Council of Social Studies, the Masonic lodge of Clearmont, the Maryville Country Club. He was a man with broad civic interests.

Student Service Fund
Chairman Sends Thanks

Recently President Lamkin received a letter from Homer P. Rainey, chairman of the Student Service Fund, thanking the college for the contribution made to the fund last year.

The fund, Mr. Rainey wrote, is a needed and significant relief program in any part of the world where students are carrying on their work without laboratories, without classrooms, and even without books. From Europe a prisoner of war, he says, wrote to the W. S. S. F., "The officers of Oflag IIA want to express to you their gratitude and appreciation for the inestimable aid you have given us. Your packages have made possible work of the highest standard. Many of us will leave our captivity one day as better men because of excellent scientific volumes with which you have supplied us."

It was early morning as the group was ordered to line up along the harsh gray wall—ready to be shot. The men stood in silent file. They were a homogenous lot, attired in identical garb, here for the same grim purpose.

They faced their executioner undaunted, unafraid. Tenseless pervaded the ranks, but not a man quailed, not one betrayed his fear.

They stepped forward—following each other like cattle waiting to be branded. Each man's number was called as he entered the circle of light.

The executioner deftly aimed his weapon. Yes, he knew what he was doing. A wry smile crossed his face.

Faculty Member Is in Hospital for Treatment

Miss Estella Bowman, of the English department, has been granted a leave of absence until November 1. She is suffering from anemia, but reports that she is showing improvement. Miss Bowman is now in St. Mary's Hospital, Winfield, Kansas.

During August she spent a vacation in Marshdale, Colorado. At the close of the vacation she went to Winfield to visit her sister and father. While there she had a physical examination that revealed her anemic condition and doctors ordered her to the hospital for treatment and a complete rest.

Dr. Dow Attends
French Meetings

Conference Has Question of Permanent Values as General Topic.

Dr. Blanche H. Dow of the Foreign Language department spent four weeks this summer attending French conferences held at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Massachusetts, under the direction of the Ecoles Libre des Hautes Etudes, established in New York City in 1941 by a group of distinguished French professors in exile. She gives the following report of the conference.

This conference was a transplantation to America of a similar one which was held, beginning in 1900, at the Cistercian Abbey at Pontigny in Burgundy where scholars and artists of various nationalities gathered together for informal discussions at the invitation of Paul Desjardins, a critic and professor of philosophy at the Ecole Normale de Sevres. The conferences assumed such an important aspect in growth of international understanding and friendship that at one time Professor Desjardins was considered for the Nobel Peace Prize.

The discussions at Mount Holyoke were marked by great informality. One of the dormitories was given to the group for living quarters. The resources of the college were made accessible to everyone. Except when the group was driven indoors by rain, the sessions were held under the trees.

The mornings of the first week were devoted to discussions of art and the afternoons to philosophy. Among the leaders in the field of art were two great Parisian artists, Marc Chagall and Andre Masson. American philosophers were represented by George Boas of Johns Hopkins, Suzanne Langer of the University of Delaware, Professor John Pratt of Williams College, and Professor Paul Weiss of Bryn Mawr.

Theme Is Permanent Values.
The general topic of the entire conference was the question of permanent values. In the second week the conference dealt specifically with poetry and with political science. The fact that the major-

Commercial Fraternity
Announces Its Meeting

Beta Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary commercial fraternity, will hold its first meeting of the current year Monday night, October 4, at 7:30, it was announced today by Sue Moore, president. The meeting will be held at 503½ West Third, the home of Miss Inez R. Lewis, the sponsor.

All members, active and pledge, from the Beta Chapter or from any other chapter are cordially invited to attend this meeting. All who plan to come, should report to the Public Relations Office, Room 210, or to Miss Lewis in Room 125.

It was early morning as the group was ordered to line up along the harsh gray wall—ready to be shot. The men stood in silent file. They were a homogenous lot, attired in identical garb, here for the same grim purpose.

They faced their executioner undaunted, unafraid. Tenseless pervaded the ranks, but not a man quailed, not one betrayed his fear.

Entertainer to Do Costume
Changes and Make-up
Before Audience.

Famous characters from Shakespeare will appear on the stage of the auditorium of the Administration Building of the College on Tuesday evening, October 5, when Charles N. Lum, noted Shakespearean actor will present a full evening of impersonations from the great English dramatist. The program will begin at 8:15.

Hamlet, King Lear, Macbeth, Cassius, Jacques, Shylock, Richard the Third—all the great characters will speak their lines; but more than that, they will be beautifully and correctly costumed. And they will be made up in full view of the audience with quick and easy changes.

Charles Lum brings to his program knowledge gained from much experience as an actor. He has appeared on the stage with such prominent stars as Ethel Barrymore, Henrietta Crossman, Nance O'Neill, William Courtney, Mrs. James Brown Potter and Kryle Bellaw. Always a lover of Shakespeare, he has acted in all the great plays and has played many different characters. In the days of silent pictures he supported Richard Dix, Bebe Daniels, and Mary Astor and was a principal in "Broken Blossoms" with Lillian Gish and Richard Barthelmus.

He Is Well Recommended.
The impersonator comes with high recommendations from places where he has given his program. "Excerpts from the Classics," President W. W. Parker of the Southeast Missouri State Teachers College at Cape Girardeau reports that Mr. Lum's program was well received by that student body. He comments upon the interest manifested in the actor's quick costume and make-up changes.

Mrs. Sydney A. Meyer of the Book and Play Circle of Temple Emanuel, Chicago, writes of him: "Mr. Lum gives an artistic and perfect performance. His characterizations are not overdrawn. He has a real Shakespearean delivery, yet, without losing the classical beauty of the lines, he gets them across to his audience as every-day language, intelligible to all."

Not long ago, Charles Lum was invited to present his Shakespearean impersonations at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C., by Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Vice-President of the United States, in a benefit program for the Red Cross and British War Relief. Wives of Congressmen and ladies prominent in diplomatic, social, and political circles made up the audience, which, Mrs. Wallace says, enjoyed the "radiant impersonations of Shakespeare's characters."

Air Corps Men to Leave Signatures

Names Are Inscribed Upon
Airplane Stationed on Fourth Floor.

Something new in the recording of the names of STC Service men has been started on the fourth floor of the Administration building. It is to be a highly individualized record, for it is limited to men of the Air Corps and each man is to sign his own name-sign it upon a model airplane.

The project began when Lieutenant Colonel Glade Bilby was asked to put his signature upon the plane in the place of honor on the right side of the cock pit.

The model airplane that is being used is one made by W. P. A. labor under Miss Olive S. DeLuce's instruction. It was modeled from the Stenson used on the local flying field at that time. Mr. Norvel Saylor used it for demonstration in his aviation classes when the cadets were stationed at the College.

Any men of the College who have been connected in any capacity with the Air Corps are eligible for placing their signatures upon the airplane. This includes men of the ground crew as well as fliers. Each man is to sign his name, his military title, and the date of his graduation or connection with the College.

Two names are now on the model plane. Besides that of Glade Bilby, who signed it "Lt. Col. Glade B. Bilby, 5 Destroyer, M. E. 109, MSTC, 1940," there appears also the signature of Mr. Saylor: "J. Norvel Saylor, Lt. (j. g.), U. S. Naval Aviation, MSTC, May, 1932."

As Air Corps men return to the College from time to time, they are expected to put their signatures on the airplane. College students and faculty are requested to tell the men about the project and ask them to sign this unique record.

Facing the Firing Squad

"All out for muster!" That was the call given on that fateful day. The lieutenant was there to give the orders.

"Report at eight o'clock to be shot by our navy specialists," he said. Wonderment spread through my confused mind. Be shot? Navy specialists? What was it all about?

Well, being a true and obedient sailor, I was ready and willing to face whatever was in store for me. I reported at the assigned place and awaited my turn. Still I was confused. Why would they want to shoot us? Had we done some major offense? One by one, the seconds and minutes ticked by. Seven fifty-five, seven fifty-six, seven fifty-seven—"Gurlant!"

"Here, sir," I replied meekly and with a catch in my throat. "Step up here."

"Yes, sir." Deliberately he placed me in my position. Standing there with a frame around my head, looking into a strange object, and shaking like a bowl of jello, I must have been a fearful sight.

Numbers were read. My numbers? Numbers of a convict? I felt like one dying at dawn.

"Ready?" I was asked, "Yes, sir."

Three clicks. That's all, I thought. Then I heard someone say, "O. K. Next for his pictures."

Without sacrificing editorial independence or their right to make independent judgments, editors and staff members of this newspaper agree to unite with all college newspapers of the nation to support, wholeheartedly and by every means at their command, the government of the United States in the war effort, to the end the college press of the nation may be a united voice for Victory.

THE COLLEGE OATH
We will never bring disgrace to this our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will obey the laws and do our best to make a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.

FINISHED—"A MIGHTY LABOUR"
College is not quite the same this fall for those who are members of the faculty or upper-classmen. Two familiar figures are missing—Mr. Wilson and Mr. Garrett. They were men who were respected by their colleagues and their students. They were men with many friends, and their friends miss them.

A line from George Meredith comes to mind—"Our life is but a little holding, lent to do mighty labour." These two men whom Death has taken from this faculty have done a mighty labor, and the results of their labor will live on. And they, too, will live on, for that very labor assures them a lasting remembrance among all who knew them.

WILL YOU HELP?
Two women are trying to keep the glass in doors and windows shining. The rooms are more attractive when the glass is clean. If everybody would just remember that finger-prints show when glass is touched, it would be a much easier task for the two women to keep the glass immaculate.

Quotable Quotes
Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.
Education makes a people easy to lead, but difficult to drive; easy to govern, but impossible to enslave.—Lord Brougham.
The reward of a thing well done, is to have done it.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Finally, education alone can conduct us to that enjoyment which is, at once, best in quality and infinite in quantity.—Horace Mann, Lectures and Reports on Education.
Jesus would write a peace based upon justice and understanding.—Dr. Charles M. Sheldon.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE
The Northwest Missourian will come out every two weeks this year instead of every week. The shortage of paper and the shortage of man-power in the printing office make this change necessary. It is with regret that the staff cannot send a paper every week to those who look to the paper for news of their Alma Mater—but a war is on, and everybody must make some sacrifice to win the victory and the peace.
The College will send the paper to all alumni and former students who are in Service in the United States whose addresses can be secured. Readers of the paper should send in addresses to the Northwest Missourian. Present mailing regulations make it impossible to send the paper to those out of the United States.

AMERICAN HEROES
BY LEFE

The machine gun chattered before him. The Japs. Their batteries tried desperately to silence it. In the end they did. When Private Peter Economopoulos crept into the emplacement, the crew was dead. He manned the gun, resumed fire. Mortar shells lobbed toward him. The Japs had the range all right. Yet he kept firing until a shell wrecked the gun and wounded him. His country has recognized this brave exploit, awarding him the D. S. C. Will you recognize it with an extra Third War Loan Bond?

HAVE YOU BOUGHT YOUR BONDS?
Every American who can possibly afford it is urged to buy at least one $100 Bond over and above what he has already bought or is buying through payroll savings or other plans. This is a special drive, intended to accomplish a special purpose—the raising of a large additional sum of money.
A great number of Americans already own one or more War Bonds each—according to recent surveys, more than one out three urban dwellers and one out of two farmers. Thus the major portion of the money to be raised in this Third War Loan Drive must come from additional purchases by those already holding Bonds.

However, there remain important untapped markets—new workers, especially women, the 50 percent of the farm market that remains to be sold, families with two, three or more persons working because of the war, the one-third of the urban market that remains to be sold. In other words, everyone who can afford to buy a War Bond should purchase Bonds to the fullest extent of his ability.

To raise 15 billion dollars, it would be necessary to sell 200 million $100 Bonds (at the subscription price of $75). And since our population, including children, is less than 136 million, it will be necessary for some people to buy much more than $100 worth.

France to America
EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was written by a young Frenchman who is a soldier in the French army in North Africa to his cousin, a French lady who married an American doctor and now lives in the United States. The letter is reproduced for its message to America.)
Casablanca, Morocco, April 28, 1943.
My Dear Cousin and God-Mother: I am sure that you are going to be surprised to receive this letter dated from Casablanca.
First I want to reassure you about the three of us. I am in excellent health. My father and mother are still in occupied France, but since Nov. 6, the only news that I get from them is transmitted to me by the International Red Cross. They seem to be well, but are terribly worried about me and this makes me sad.
Now I will go back to 1939-40. At that time I was too young to go in the army, so I helped my father in his business. It was the quiet period, preceding the offensive of May 10, 1940. Life for many was going as usual. Then came the exodus, so lamentable and so sad, when the people of Northern and Eastern France were fleeing South. I shall never forget this mournful mass of humanity—women, children and old men—frantically seeking a way to escape south.
You, who know my mother so well, her deep and passionate patriotism, will realize what her state of mind was after the French defeat. We didn't move from our town, which became occupied June 19, 1940. Dad, too, was terribly affected by the turn of events. "But we had to make the best of a bad job," said one of the French people that things would soon right themselves. I will say that in spite of the impressive display of power made by the Teutons, the French people stayed convinced through it all that victory would come sooner or later.
So we accepted the occupation, accommodating ourselves the best we could. But I, fiery, like most young men of my age, had difficulty in accepting the situation. Several times I was threatened to be shot because I was saying just what I thought and was trying to persuade the "Fritz" that Germany would lose the war.
All our buying centers were across the line, and our business in the occupied zone. Several times every week I would go across to a distance of 120 miles and I had some narrow escapes.
In the summer of 1941 the Boches threatened to draft the young French men. Mr. B., father's associate, advised me to go with him to Morocco. I got ready to go, but a few days before my departure, Dad had a relapse. I stayed until he recovered, and finally it was he himself who took care of all the red tape connected with such an adventure and insisted that I should leave. Mother came with me as far as D.... It was in that little town that the separation took place. Mother went back home, and I journeyed to Marseilles where I embarked Oct. 8, 1941. I landed in Morocco Oct. 19, 1941.
Here we could not erect any buildings for the factory we had in mind. No materials were available anywhere. We waited and finally Mr. B., a friend from Paris, and I bought out a packing house from a group of men who were anxious to leave Morocco. This was in June, 1942. From that time until November we really enjoyed a very good and growing business.
Until November I would exchange letters and cables with my parents every day, but this is over now. I was in Casablanca Nov. 8, day of the American attack. Our packing house is near the harbour, so for a while we were really in a hot spot. It is regrettable and sad to think that there were some casualties on both sides, but as the old French proverb says: "It is impossible to make an omelet without breaking some eggs."
After the American invasion, the French army was reorganized and since Nov. 15, I am in the army. I had two months instruction in a camp and I certainly worked hard. Now I am in aviation. At the time when I write these lines, I have just passed my medical examination at Rabat to become officer pilot. It is very possible that I will go to America for further studies, after my course of instruction is over here.
We have been comforted by the arrival of American material here lately. The morale of our soldiers is good and please, rest assured, you, on the other side of the Atlantic, that the French in North Africa have only one desire—it is to kick the Boches out. Our soldiers have given a good account of themselves in Tunisia, where they fought successfully with insufficient and outdated material, and tomorrow when we will be fully equipped by the side of our American and English friends, we will do some good work.
My thoughts have been with you so much here lately. Often when I was watching the young American soldiers land in Casablanca I thought that maybe a cousin of mine was among them, and that, 25 years after his father, Gilbert would likely help to liberate our beloved France.
I will leave you dear God-Mother, hoping that my letter finds you in good health. Kindly transmit to your great America the cordial and grateful salute of all young Frenchmen.

Faculty Offices Are Changed This Autumn

To make more class-rooms available in order to accommodate the classes of the Navy V-12 program and of the students enrolled for the fall half-semester, some of the offices have been converted into class-rooms. The faculty members who have had offices in those rooms have been assigned to other offices.
Room 205, formerly used as Recreation Hall, is now an office room. In it are Miss Katherine Helwig, Mr. George H. Colbert, Mrs. Edna Turner, Mr. O'Grady, and Dr. Ruth Lane of the Mathematics department; Dr. Ruth Lowery, and Miss Alice Reece of the English department; Dr. Irene Mueller of the Biology department; Miss Lois Roper, assistant in the physics laboratory and in mathematics; Dr. Joseph Drapp of the Foreign Language department.
From Room 301, faculty desks have been removed to Room 206. Those now occupying Room 206 are Dr. Reven S. DeJarnette, Miss Ruth Nelson, Mrs. Hazel Carter, and Mr. Virgil Parmann of the Music faculty; Miss Grace Shepherd of the Education faculty; and Mr. T. H. Cook of the Social Science faculty.
Other faculty members who have made changes of office include Miss Winelle Ann Carruth, who has moved from the Gymnasium to Room 118; Mr. M. C. Cunningham, who has moved from Room 118 to the Horace Mann building; Mr. Homer T. Phillips, who has moved from Room 208 to Room 203; Dr. John G. The Stroller
Hear Ye! Hear Ye! The Stroller is celebrating his silver anniversary! Twenty-five years of service on the staff of the College paper. That definitely marks him as an old-timer. He is finding it difficult to get used to the little white and blue suits roaming the campus. Guess, that's a sign that the Stroller is really getting "set in his ways" in his old age.
Have you seen the "Bearcat" and the five little "Bearkittens" who have taken over the job of mascots and junior mascots to the Navy V-12 program?
Mona Alexander and Helen Boyersmith came back from a quiet vacation with new ornaments on the third finger, left hand.
Many former students now in service have paid the campus a visit recently. Of course, everyone saw and heard Lieutenant Colonel Glade Bilby, but the campus was also honored by the presence of Max Rush, Bill Tebow, Ray Newlon, Joe Lauchiskis, Jack Leuck, Tony Rizzo, Wes McClaren, Orville Johnson, Russell Insley, Erman Bird...
The dance Friday night was a success, thanks to the Dance Band. The coeds enjoy being junior Elks, or whatever one would call them.
Rush week is now in swing. Soon the little pledges will be wearing some rather shocking apparel.
The Bearcat victory Friday night proved that Maryville still has a good football team.
Was the Dormitory "Log" book lost, strayed, or stolen? The Stroller pities someone when this little book finally turns up. It looks as though the guilty party or parties will find it difficult from both sides, their fellow inmates who haven't enjoyed their forced retirement, and the Naval authorities.

Hitler's Fault

It all began with Hitler. If he had not walked over Europe and involved all those countries in war and thus given Japan a better opportunity to shake her big stick at us which involved us in war and forced us to mobilize our manpower, some of whom are stationed in this college, causing an urgent demand for classrooms and in the supply of that demand necessitating the removal of offices from one room to another, the latter being cleaned of all extra material (the Y. W. C. A. files among them) and moved—if all this had not happened, life for the Y. W. C. A. president would have been much simpler.
The president returned to college to discover that the cabinet which usually held the Y. W. C. A. files had been moved to the "Bearcats" Den. Upon investigation, she found the cabinet empty and ready for use by the Senate. She then figured out the Director of Personnel for Women as to the fate of those files. The janitor had taken them to the attic. But the janitor, being questioned, remembered nothing about it. Nevertheless he sent the president of the Y. W. C. A. to the fourth floor which contains all the odds and ends of scenery. The files were not there.
As a last resort, the president had the Director of Personnel herself ask the janitor. She reminded him he had put the files in a big box, one the defense stamp company had come in, "like a box funeral" flowers are sent in." Then he remembered the funeral flowers did it.
So the president went up to the east attic, poked around in the tags and bobbles and rescued the files from the spiders and pigeons. Now all she needs is a convenient place to put them.

Bearcats Defeat the Flyers, 6 to 0

Maryville Team Captures Grid Season Victory on Forward Pass Play.

Van Pelt Passes to Dygert

Flyers Hold Bearcats Even for First Half; Maryville Makes Big Gain in Last Half.

(St. Joseph Gazette) Maryville's faster and lighter Bearcats, using a deceptive attack off the T formation, triumphed over the Rosecrans Flyers, 6 to 0, before more than 1,500 fans last night at Benton Field in St. Joseph's football season opener.

The Bearcats climaxed an 80-yard drive in the first quarter with a touchdown pass, Harold Van Pelt to Dwayne Dygert, for the game's lone score. Van Pelt's place-kick for the extra point was low.

Twice in the second half the Teachers were deep in the Flyers' territory, but failed to score. Once the Bearcats muffed a scoring chance with a fumble on the one-yard line, and the second time the Flyers on the 13-yard marker.

The Flyers also threatened to score, but failed to work inside the Maryville 10-yard line.

Flyers Outcharged

Coach Ryland Milner's line outcharged the heavier Flyer forwards, hurrying the Rosecrans punts and passes and stopping some ground plays at the scrimmage line.

The Teachers kicked off to the Flyers to open the game, but got the ball on their own 20-yard line on a punt and headed for scoring territory. The Bearcats passed twice in the scoring drive, the first aerial netting 17 yards, and the second—which brought the game's only touchdown—three yards. Maryville rolled up six first downs in the touchdown drive.

Except for the sustained scoring offensive, the Flyers held the Bearcats to fairly even terms in the first half, gaining 77 yards from scrimmage to 80 for the Maryville eleven.

Dygert, Van Pelt star, in the last half, however, the Teachers gained 113 yards from scrimmage, while the Flyers were gaining only 18.

Dygert, left halfback for the Teachers, and Van Pelt, quarterback, were the offensive stars for Maryville. Helm, Weidmeyer and Gutar were the defensive standouts.

The starting lineups:

Flyers	Maryville
Gibbons	LE. Bennedict
McCullough	LT. Norland

Junior Squad Wins Over Maryville High

Noel Decker Makes the Winning Touchdown; Nelson Gets Points

The Bearcats' Junior Squad, coached by Lieutenant Albert Fagetti, defeated the Maryville high school team 7-6 in a close game at the College Field Friday evening.

Noel Decker scored the winning touchdown after the Bearcats had used a series of reverse and spinner plays to gain territory numbering 60 yards. The Bearcats' extra point was scored by the wing back, Nelson, on a reverse play.

The high school opened hostilities by launching an attack from the kick-off which netted them a touchdown. They failed in their attempt for the extra point.

In the words of Lieutenant Fagetti, "The high school team looked very good." The Bearcats displayed the evidence of their capability in the scoring column.

The game was lacking in passing plays as reverse and spinner plays along with end running were featured as the offensive tactics of both teams.

"Pierre Cot, Minister of Air during socialist regime of Leon Blum," said Dr. Dow, "was one of the most eloquent speakers and revealed with astonishing frankness some of the intrigues and the political machinations which led to the collapse of the traditional regime in 1940."

Emile Bure, the journalist who gave to Clemenceau his epithet of "Tiger," was at the conference as a vigorous partisan of the government of the fighting French in exile, as was Genevieve Tabouis, both of whom were among the four hostages demanded first by Hitler after the occupation of France.

Exiles Talk of Germany. The question of what is to be done with Germany after the war was presented by distinguished Germans in exile and was discussed and commented on by Czechs and Russians, by Spaniards, Italians, and Frenchmen.

The discussion on psychology and sociological problems was led by Dr. Raymond de Saussure of the University of Geneva, while discussion of the novel, second interest in the third week, was led by Marc Slonin, distinguished Russian novelist.

STARS IN SERVICE

Sports in Brief

(By Cliff Foster and Jim Clarity) This Friday night Maryville gridiron fans will get their initial look at Coach Milner's 1943 edition of the Bearcat eleven. Fielding a team composed in the main of V-12 trainees stationed here on the campus, Coach Milner's boys will attempt to make it two straight against a strong Missouri Valley squad. We have no fear in predicting that Maryville fans will like what they see, for in defeating the Rosecrans Flyers last Friday evening the Bearcats showed potentialities which will go to make up a good team.

One of the big factors in deciding the outcome of Friday night's game was the fight and hustle instilled in the boys by "Taffy" Milner. Consistently throughout the game the lighter Green and White line outcharged and outgained the heavier Flyer forward wall, enabling the Bearcats to gain many a yard.

Cape Girardeau, member of the U. C. L. A. to triumph over Southern California to start off their march toward their second consecutive conference title. And finally, here at home, we predict our own Bearcats to take the measure of Illinois Eleven, 2-18. These games are good examples of the importance of Army and Navy school in deciding this year's gridiron championships.

Over in the baseball world the Cardinals fans have occasion for joy. The Cards did it again. By taking a double header from the Cubs Saturday they clinched the National League title for the second year in a row. We wish to be among the first to congratulate Billy Southworth and his boys for their achievement.

Throughout the football season we will give our predictions on a few of the highlight games throughout the country in every issue. So here goes our predictions for this week: Up at Minneapolis, the Minnesota Tigers will bow to the Minnesota Gophers. The sailors from Great Lakes will trounce the Hawkeyes from Iowa, while Don Paurol's Iowa Seahawks will make it two straight against the luckless Illinois.

Out on the west coast we predict U. C. L. A. to triumph over Southern California to start off their march toward their second consecutive conference title. And finally, here at home, we predict our own Bearcats to take the measure of Illinois Eleven, 2-18. These games

Alumnus Relates Island Experience

He Does Not Care to Meet Python and Foregoes Jungle Trips.

"Coconut trees as thick as dandelions on a warm spring day" surround the tent in which lives Donald S. Russell, graduate of the College, now on duty with a construction battalion of the United States Navy, somewhere in the Southwest Pacific.

The ocean trip to the island, says Mr. Russell, who is now Second Class Petty Officer, was uneventful except for four days of seasickness and the elaborate initiation for the men who were making their first crossing of the equator. "King Neptune came aboard to preside," he writes, "and now we are all fledged Shellbacks, diploma and all."

Tent life is not too pleasant, what with having to sleep on cots draped with netting to keep off the mosquitoes and fraternizing with ants, lizards, and cats; but Mr. Russell says "After a time we have come to the point that it is only part of the game, and we pay no attention to them." He comments upon the good food, the quick mail service, short-wave news broadcasts, and outdoor movies, saying that "Uncle Sammy" is taking good care of them.

Mr. Russell has been assigned to the Supply Department Office, but as occasion arises, he helps in any section of the department. His hours are long, but he says that he has every Sunday afternoon off. He spends that time in swimming at the beach or exploring the island.

His one trip to the jungle, delightful in itself, he says is to be his last for rumor has it that two men killed a twelve-foot python there recently.

Though the alumnus of the College is far from home, he has met several men he has known elsewhere. "Not so long ago," he says, "a fellow told me that John Yeaman from Maryville was on this island. As yet I have not been able to locate him."

Lieutenant Franken Is Bombardier Instructor

Second Lieutenant John H. Franken, son of Mr. J. H. Franken of Warrenton, Missouri, was recently graduated from the central Insular School for Bombardiers at Carlisle Army Air Field, Carlisle, New Mexico. The school combines "refresher courses" in basic bombardiering with new techniques developed in various commands.

Lieutenant Franken has returned to his home station at Albuquerque, New Mexico, Bombardier School, where he is a bombardier instructor. He is a former student of the College.

Navy Quartet Sings to Help Launch Bond Drive

"I've been workin' for the Navy," sang four of the men of the V-12 unit of the College, "Just to keep the Japs away!" as they took part in the program for launching the Third War Loan Drive in Nodaway County. The tune was that of "I've Been Workin' on the Railroad"; the words were original with the young men, one of their number having written them for the occasion.

The quartet was made up of Robert C. Baum of Union, Oregon; Richard Ferris of LeGrande, Oregon; Leland D. Finney of Arcadia, Nebraska; and Charles Edward Gerber of Kansas City, Missouri. They sang several numbers, including the Navy Song and "Kentucky Babe," and closed with "Missouri Waltz" to honor the state of their present residence.

The Bond Drive song ran: "I've been workin' for the Navy All the live-long day; I've been workin' for the Navy Just to keep the Japs away. Can't you hear the bugles blowin'?"

Rise up so early in the day! Won't you buy a bond for freedom? We'll win the war this way!"

Those in Service

Soldier Talks Pidgin English to Islanders

Lieutenant-Colonel Herschel Colbert, son of Mr. George H. Colbert of the Mathematics department of the College, has written his father from the South Pacific that he is coming into contact with Pidgin English, which is used for communication with the natives of the islands. He sent along a sample of the language, suggesting that his father might have some use for it in his class in the theory of number.

"In general," said the son of the mathematics teacher, "the natives can't count beyond five, but they handle higher numbers by the old system of referring to fingers and toes. The new part that may be of interest consists of the terminology. The numeral five is 'one-fellow hand,' 'one-fellow' being the expression for one. Ten is 'two-fellow hand,' meaning, of course the fingers on two hands. Fifteen is 'two-fellow hand, one-fellow foot,' meaning the fingers and toes on two hands and one foot. Twenty is 'enough long one-fellow man,' meaning the fingers and toes on all hands and feet, that is, enough or all that a person has. Enough means 'that's all,' and 'long' is used for every preposition except of; so 'enough long one-fellow man' means 'that's all (fingers and toes) that one man has.'"

Lieutenant Blagg Helps Some Americans Adrift

Lieutenant W. E. (Bill) Blagg, who is with the United States Army Air Force, flying heavy cargo planes from Arabia to India, had an important role recently, according to the special edition of the Maryville Daily Forum, in rescuing twenty Americans adrift on a rubber raft.

While on one of his flights, he sighted the drifting boat. He radioed for help and then circled over the men in distress until a flying plane came out for the rescue.

Lieutenant Blagg, a former student of the College, enlisted in the army and served in Newfoundland before taking an examination for the air force. He was stationed at Rosecrans Field in St. Joseph before going to North Africa.

Flies as Co-Pilot on B-17 at Redmond Base

Lieutenant Robert E. Allen of Maryville is now co-pilot on a B-17, stationed at the Redmond Air Base, Redmond, Oregon. He was graduated August 30 from the Army Air Forces Advanced Flying School at Stockton, California. Prior to that he had completed 18 weeks of primary and basic training at Visalia and Taft, California.

In College, Lieutenant Allen was a member of Sigma Tau Gamma and of Alpha Phi Omega.

Private Rex Adams is a clerk at the general headquarters army post and service command in Hawaii.

Receives Honorable Discharge

Corporal Donald E. Johnson, a graduate of the College, has received honorable discharge from the United States Army. He had been stationed for 15 months at Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyoming. Previous to induction into the army, Mr. Johnson had been teaching music and will probably return to that profession.

Lieutenant Russell Insley of Geiger Field, Washington, was a frequent visitor at the College during his ten-day furlough spent with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Insley.

James Hale Woodburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Woodburn, of Maryville, was graduated June 19 from the Naval Air Training Center, Corpus Christi, Texas, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. He is a former student of the College and a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity.

Miss Marie Arnett, yeoman third class, who received her training with the SPARS at Palm Beach, Florida, has been sent to Long Beach, California, where she will be stationed. She spent a short furlough in Maryville with her parents before going to the West.

Glenn E. Randleman, who was graduated from Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, wore the gold bars of a second lieutenant after the Medical Administrative Corps officer candidate school graduation at Camp Berkeley, Texas, on June 23.

Sergeant Eugene M. Ingram, former assistant manager at the College farm, is now at the Alexandria (Louisiana) Army Air Base, where he has been assigned to the bombardment group for an intensive course in combat flying. He is preparing for taking a Flying Fortress into actual combat.

Private Kyle Rex Adams, also a former student, is now in Hawaii and is serving as a clerk at the general headquarters army post and service command.

Tony Rizzo Makes Call Upon His Alma Mater

Ensign Anthony J. Rizzo, a former student, was a recent visitor at the College. He reported that he had come from Jacksonville, Florida, for a visit at home before being transferred to the Navy Air Corps at an East coast station.

Mr. Rizzo was graduated on June 19 from the Naval Air Training center, Corpus Christi, Texas, and was commissioned an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve.

Three Men Receive Their Gold Wings

Two Are Commissioned as Second Lieutenants; One Is Ensign.

Richard Burnell Appleman, Thomas Nelson Meadows, and Marvin Byron McElhiney, all former students of the College, won their Navy "Wings of Gold" in July, following completion of the prescribed flight training course at the Naval Air Training Center, Pensacola, Florida.

Mr. Appleman and Mr. McElhiney were commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. Mr. Meadows was commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve.

Prior to entering the Naval service, Lieutenant Appleman and Ensign Meadows attended the College for two years, and Lieutenant McElhiney attended the College for three years. Lieutenant Appleman was a member of the varsity track team, Ensign Meadows was a member of the varsity football and basketball teams, and Lieutenant McElhiney was a member of the varsity basketball team.

Having been designated Naval Aviators, these men will go on active duty at one of the Navy's air operational training centers before being assigned to a combat zone.

Wes McClaren Chooses Navy as His Profession

Wes McClaren, Jr., who has been spending a month's leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wes McClaren of Elmo, has returned to his work at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland. He made two visits to the College while on leave, renewing acquaintances made during his three years there as a student.

Mr. McClaren will receive his commission from the Academy next June—"if everything goes well," he said. He regrets the fact that the exigencies of war will probably make it necessary for his class to be satisfied with a short cruise after graduation instead of the usual longer cruise given graduating classes. He stated that he would probably get experience, enough later, as he has definitely decided to remain with the Navy after graduation.

The former student spoke of the strict discipline maintained at Annapolis and added, "It's good for me. I've learned to keep my room in order. I laugh now about how my landlady while I was in College used to fly into me about how disorderly I was in my room!"

President Takes Navy Course

The president of the College, W. L. Lamkin left for New York, September 14, and is now attending an orientation course for leaders of colleges where Navy units are stationed. The President will remain in New York City for the complete course, which will last for two weeks.

Joe Lauchuski, a former student and basketball player of the College, visited the College recently. He is in training at Fort Warren, Wyoming.

Two brothers, Erman and Edward Bird, are both captains in the United States Army, at the age of 22 and 23, respectively. They are sons of Viron E. Bird, a former student of the College and are themselves former students.

Miss Virginia L. Watt, American Red Cross staff sergeant, who recently arrived in North Africa, is a former student of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College. She is a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. Prior to her overseas assignment she was a member of the faculty of the Simmons Junior high school at Jefferson City.

She is stationed at Love Field, Dallas, Texas, where she transports planes from factories to army air fields. Miss Bristol was trained at Avenger Field, Sweetwater, Texas, under the direction of Miss Jacqueline Cochran.
